FACTS WORTH KNOWING

A decade ago folks would never have dreamed of swallowing breakfasts like pills and rushing for trains two steps at a time—just for business.

Neither would they have dreamed of a situation which required them to squeeze around the foot of the bed to avoid colliding with a bureau or of having a good-sized chair run up the outside of the house and in a window because the halls were not good-sized chair width! But the modern is an adaptable creature.

If you live in an apartment with a kitchen too small "for human nature's" daily food, or for a clothes horse for drying, try this scheme for the odds and ends of washing. Have made a four or five-rung ladder which, instead of ladder width, is three or four feet wide.

Attach the lower ends to the base-board of the kitchen below a free wall space. This may be done by the means of sockets or hinges.
